

Hurricane delivers final blow

LOVINGSTON, Va. (UPI)—Rescue crews pushed along the muddy banks of the receding James River today in search of bodies or survivors of floodwaters that engulfed entire mountain villages in a 250-mile rampage toward the sea.

Fifty-six persons were known dead, according to civil defense officials in Richmond. Gov. Mills E. Godwin, after a helicopter tour of the stricken areas, said, "it appears that perhaps at least 100 of our fellow citizens have lost their lives."

The flooding was the final blow by hurricane Camille in a 1,000-mile swath across the southeastern United States after striking inland on the Mississippi Gulf Coast. Although only a squall when it reached Virginia, Camille dumped up to 10 inches of rain, sending the James River cascading through the Allegheny and Blue Ridge Mountains.

Camille confirmed overall death toll was 187 in Mississippi, Louisiana, West Virginia and Virginia. Although there was confusion about the Mississippi toll, the body count was 115. Five were dead in Louisiana and two in West Virginia.

Camille, whose 190-mile-an-hour winds caused damage estimated as high as $1 billion on the Gulf Coast, whirled into the Atlantic from Virginia and regained some of its strength as it flailed the open seas. A sister storm, Debbie also was in the open Atlantic, about 600 miles northeast of Bermuda.

The James River, on which England established its first colony at Jamestown in 1607, reached its highest levels in almost 100 years as it swirled through the mountains. It washed into Richmond with almost a 29-foot crest, but did little damage to the sandbagged capital before spilling through the marshlands into the sea.

The damage, already estimated in excess of $90 million, was in the Virginia midsection, where several mountain hamlets disappeared under the muddy waters.

An accurate tabulation of the total death and damage will take days, even weeks in some areas, because of its vast remoteness.

"I really makes you grow up. It really pushes you," said Phil Payne, 15, who joined search parties in hardest-hit Nelson County. "We found one man wrapped around a tree, buried in mud. It took up all afternoon to dig him out."

Payne's hometown of Lovingson, the Nelson County seat and its largest town with a population of about 400, escaped major damage. But towns less than 10 miles away—Massie's Mill and Wood's Mill—were destroyed. There were at least 14 confirmed deaths in Massie's Mill alone.

The Virginia Association of Rescue Squads sent volunteer teams "walking through" Nelson County, searching the slime and muck for bodies. Typhoid vaccine was dispensed as a health precaution.

Murder suspect led erratic sex life

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Paul R. Ferguson, the elder of two brothers charged with the murder of silent-screen star Ramon Navarro, led an erratic sex life, including marriage to a woman of 42 when he was 16 and homosexual activities with older men when he was 9, it was revealed Friday.

Dr. Vernon J. Miller, a defense psychiatrist, made the description of Paul Ferguson's sex life Friday as the defense sought to establish the plea of "diminished mental capacity."

Paul, 23, who is being tried with Thomas S. Ferguson, 18, has a brain disease which led him to become "violently destructive" after drinking large amounts of alcohol, the psychiatrist said.

Miller said after Paul had 2 drinks of whiskey and two cans of beer in jail, he became physically violent and a brainwave test showed a breakdown of his mental functions.

The doctor testified Ferguson told him he had drunk even more than that Oct. 30, the night Navarro, 69, was beaten to death at his home.

Paul is scheduled to take the witness stand Monday to give his version of the slaying. One witness previously testified the brothers told him that Thomas Ferguson struck and killed the actor because he made improper advances.

However, the younger brother's girlfriend testified he called from Navarro's home and said Paul was beating the actor.

A defense of diminished capacity could lead to a second-degree rather than first-degree murder verdict, not punishable by death.

Major brush fires threatening communities

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI)—Eleven major brush fires, including one that forced the evacuation of 250 persons from a small San Diego County ranching community, had charred nearly 50,000 acres of land in three southern California counties by early today.

The small community of De Luz, about 20 miles northwest of Oceanside, was completely evacuated as flames from a 25,000 acre blaze inched closer late Friday.

The blaze which was reported still out of control, started in the Camp Pendleton military reservation Friday.

Scorched by intense heat and low humidity, the fires were whipped by winds. Fire fighters from as far north as Sacramento were brought to Southern California late Friday as fire lines were spread thin.

At least 26 fires, most of them small were reported late Friday in San Diego, Riverside and San Bernardino Counties.

Six homes in the $30,000 to $50,000 bracket were destroyed within one hour when a 90 acre blaze swept through the San Diego suburb of El Cajon. Two women suffered minor burns while trying to save their homes. The fire was contained late Friday.

Authorities said another small brush blaze destroyed one home in the city limits here and another home was damaged.

The second largest fire, 12,000 acres, raged out of control near the small Riverside community of Temecula. Officials said the blaze threatened 24 homes in Rainbow Valley but there were no plans for evacuation although several residents had already left the area. The fire also threatened fifteen homes on the outskirts of Temecula but was stopped by fire lines.

Two fire fighters battled a nearby blaze, two miles north of Riverside, suffered minor burns. The blaze was contained after it destroyed 500 acres of brush.

Lompoc United Fund sets new goal at $75,000

A campaign goal of $75,000 was announced today for the Lompoc United Fund by Mike Siminski, 1969 campaign chairman. The funds will go to the support of 14 health, welfare and youth agencies of the Valley.

"This goal represents more than a 20 per cent increase over the amount pledged and collected for 1969," Siminski stated. "It is, however, a goal that this community can meet and even exceed."

The Lompoc Girls' Club has been added as a new agency to the United Fund this year.

Budget Chairman Lou Garcia announced the proposed 1970 allocations to the agencies as follows: American Red Cross, $11,100; Catholic Welfare, $4,600; Family Service Agency, $7,200; Committee on Alcoholism, $450; Girl Scouts, $5,000; Boy Scouts, $10,- 900; Camp Fire Girls, $6,200; Children's Home Society, $1,600; Boys' Club, $6,250; YMCA, $9,800; Children's Hospital, $200; Girls' Club, $3,500; Salvation Army, $500 and Visiting Nurses Association, $200. Administrative costs are set at $4,500.

Siminski said that he expects the money to be raised as follows: $28,500 from the community; $22,000 from military and civil service; $15,000 from Vandenberg contractors and $9,500 from the Associated-In-Group Donors.

The campaign will run throughout the month of October.

The campaign chairman stated that the United Fund is a voluntary federation of non-profit agencies designed to allow citizens to pay their fair share of the essential health, welfare and youth services in the community.

State has surplus of $79.8 million

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Assembly Democrats today claimed full justification for blocking passage of a state budget and forcing Gov. Ronald Reagan to agree to increased aid for local schools for surplus funds.

Their comments followed announcement Friday by State Controller Houston Flournoy that the State Treasury has a surplus totaling $79.8 million - $60 million more than Reagan predicted in June.

Flournoy, a Republican, said the extra money accrued from larger tax collections and certain savings reported by state agencies.

He said the final figure on the surplus amount won't be known until Nov. 1, but added it will probably vary less than $5 million, either more or less, than his preliminary estimate.

Assembly Democratic Leader Jess Unruh immediately pounced on the Flournoy report to claim it "constitutes a complete justification" for blocking passage of the state's $6.2 billion state budget.

Assembly Democrats refused to vote for the spending blueprint until Reagan agreed to sign an increased aid bill in addition to $1.3 billion already returned to elementary and secondary schools.

The governor originally proposed $105 million more for schools, but Democrats held out for more. They said state surplus funds would total between $60 million and $80 million.

But Reagan and his chief money adviser, State Finance Director Caspar W. Weinberger, rejected Democratic estimates and said the surplus would amount to between $18 million and $22 million.

But Democrats blocked budget passage for three days until Reagan would approve an assistance measure over his estimates.

The governor finally agreed to a $120 million - plus surplus assistance measure, that included $95 million in the budget and an anticipated $40 million in surplus funds that turned out to total $79.8 million.

"This completely vindicates my position that the California school crisis was a more pressing state problem than any other," said Democratic Assemblyman Robert Moretti, a leader of the floor fight.

"The governor would not have al-

Supervisors face heavy tax protests

Although county supervisors have been able to forestall a county tax increase for 1969-70 it seemed apparent today, taxpayers from throughout the county are continuing to take out large numbers of applications for tax assessment protest case, it was verified today. Deadline for filing applications is Tuesday, Aug. 26, at 5 p.m.

County Clerk J. E. Lewis said that at least 60 persons have taken out applications - many of them three or four apparently for others as well as themselves - at the office of Clerk of the Board Howard Menzel in the County Administration Building in Santa Barbara in recent weeks.

Applications are also being handed out in a steady stream in the county's Lompoc and Santa Maria offices, it was indicated.

This means the county supervisors are going to have to gird for a record number of assessment appeal hearings to be held in September if all or most of the persons taking out applications file them in time.

Fifty sets of applications have been taken out by Western Oil and Gas Assn. to protest possessory interest taxation, it was revealed. Atlantic-Richfield Oil Co. has taken out 13 sets.

located the extra money unless we forced his hand," added Moretti, Van Nuys.

But Unruh, a probable candidate for governor next year, chastised Reagan, who is expected to seek a second term, for underestimating the surplus.

"I cannot understand how this administration can expect the people to believe it is being frugal with their money when it is off the mark in estimating surpluses in its own treasury by almost $60 million," he said.

"What kind of a state government do we have when the minority party of the Legislature knows more about the condition of state finances than the man responsible for them - the governor?" Unruh asked.

Weinberger said Reagan, who is vacationing at his home in Pacific Palisades, was "delighted" with the higher-than-expected surplus.

But he rejected criticism of administration estimates saying it was nearly impossible to accurately project the exact dollar surplus.

He also disputed the Flournoy increased tax collection figures as too high compared to other years.

Robber handles liquor store holdup from telephone booth

Two men, one in a telephone booth across the street, held up the Bel Air Liquor Store at 11:41 p.m. yesterday for $822, Lompoc Police said this morning.

According to the liquor store clerk, the police said, one man stood in front of the counter while another told him what to do over the phone. After telling the clerk the man in the store had a .38 caliber pistol trained on him, the second man directed the clerk to put all the money in a brown paper bag. When this was done, the robber departed.

The silent burglar alarm connecting Bel Air Liquor to the police station failed to continue ringing after one short alarm, police said, and the clerk was unable to use his phone because the phone had been left off the hook at the other end. It took 5 or 6 minutes for the clerk to flag a citizen down to report the robbery to the police.

The physical description of the robber inside the store is a white male, 20 to 25 years of age, about five-feet nine-inches tall, weighing 170 to 180 pounds. His hair was blond and pock marks covered his face. He was sporting a white sport-car-type hat.

Assessor uses sale prices to determine land value

By VAUGHN PROCTOR

Staff Writer

Ed note: This is the fourth of a multi-part series based on an interview with County Assessor Harry Holmquist.

QUESTION: Isn't it true that you use sales of comparable properties to establish the assessment on nearby lands? Doesn't this make for injustices? By way of example, if a speculator is a high income bracket man and is looking for a tax shelter, in reality his investment may represent only 25-cents or 50-cents on each of his dollars whereas the neighboring property purchased by a non-speculator may represent $1 to more than $1 in reality. However, because the speculator is, in effect, spending dollars that normally would go to taxes, he can afford to pay inflated prices for the property. Next, the assessor comes along and assesses adjoining or similar properties on the basis of the speculation buy? Hence the rancher or the non-speculator gets caught in a bind not of his own making.

QUESTION: Do you use speculative sales, . . .

HOLMQUIST: "We use sales, period. We don't look at them as speculative and we don't look at them as economic and neither do the courts."

QUESTION: Well, now do you give any allowance for whether they paid cash for the deal or whether they . . .

HOLMQUIST: "Yes, yes, yes we do and incidentally it's surprising how many of these big sales have been cash deals."

QUESTION: That woman who bought all that land to the east?

HOLMQUIST: "Yes, that was all cash and that was 4,500 acres . . ."

QUESTION: Do you care to comment on the sales picture.

HOLMQUIST: I know in the Santa Ynez Valley a lot of sales were cash and of course there were some that weren't . . . the deal that fell through . . . naturally when you get something like that you just don't use it at all."

QUESTION: In other words you don't differentiate between a sale which may be a reasonable sale or according to the trend or whether it was out of line in the purchase price?

HOLMQUIST: "Oh yes, oh yes, now in studying sales, we find that some sales are quite low and we find sales that are quite high and we'd rather attach ourselves to a middle band of sales and then make our comparisons of comparable property."

QUESTION: Did you say that the courts recognize only that it was a sale?

HOLMQUIST: "That's right."

QUESTION: . . . not whether it's speculative?

HOLMQUIST: "Here's a definition of market value. I had a very advantageous lease on your property and the lease was to continue for some time. Maybe, you'd be better off to sell that to me. Now we've had sales like that because nobody on the open market might want to buy it with a bad lease on it too, that's another thing. And there are a lot of bad leases."

QUESTION: Would you say that in a depressed or a momentarily static economic situation that a good percentage of the sales would be below market value?

HOLMQUIST: "No, if the area is depressed and there are sales I say that's market value, at that particular time."

In tomorrow's installment, Holmquist digs deeper into the subject of speculative sales and their effect on the values of land generally.

Progress reported on city 'nuisance' items including weeds, curbs, cycles

Progress is being made on several "general nuisance" items of concern to Lompoc City Councilman, City Administrator Gene Wahlers reported yesterday.

Councilman Brooks Speight and Richard Jacoby mentioned this week such items as street corner weeds obstructing the view of traffic, noisy motorcycles, the repair of curbs and sidewalks and the elimination of unsafe conditions in partially completed streets.

Wahlers said most of the items mentioned generally are taken care of under routine action by various departments unless they present specific and urgent problems.

He said the specific situations brought up by the councilman are being checked on and work has even started on some.

Speight said the noise, dust and litter created by motorcycles is becoming a bigger problem and more and more residents are beginning to complain about it.

Two areas in particular, Speight said, where neighbors are complaining are a field near Anthony Way, just north of W. North Avenue where motorcycles create a disturbance, and a lot near S. Seventh Street and E. Olive where residents are bothered by the noise and dust created by mini-bike riders.

In connection with this Jacoby suggested the city look into the possibility of creating an ordinance to suppress general noise.

City attorney Jim Longtin said the city already has laws regarding certain noises but that he would check to see specifically what they are and what others the city could put into effect.

Jacoby said there are several areas in town where damaged curbs and sidewalks are going unrepaid. He said the city should be responsible for the maintenance of curbs and walks.

Wahlers said there are specific instances in which persons, other than the city, should be held responsible for the repair of damaged curbs and sidewalks. He said he had already instigated a survey to determine whether the city or other persons should pay for the repair of certain damaged places.

Jacoby also asked for more progress in elimination of certain areas where partially completed streets have created an unsafe condition.

He explained these are situations in which the city has been unable to acquire rights-of-way from property owners in order to complete the construction of a street. The streets were built around these specific areas, creating what Jacoby called, hazardous areas.

He said many such areas have already been corrected but he is anxious for the others to also be taken care of.

He mentioned one in particular, near the La Canada Elementary School, that was dangerous to children going to and from school, as well as the routine traffic in the area.

Cab driver subdues gunman

SAN BERNARDINO (UPI)—A San Diego cab driver, forced by gun point to drive several hundred miles by an escapee from the San Diego City Jail, finally subdued and wounded his kidnapper while grappling for the gun.

Sheriff's deputies said Dennis D. Dunann, 20, ordered the driver at gun point to West Covina where he allegedly fired a shot at his father, Frank Dunann, 46, a detective with the Los Angeles County Sheriff Department.

Sheriff's deputies said the young gunman escaped from the San Diego jail Friday after stealing a shotgun, a service revolver, a can of mace and a pair of handcuffs.

Dunann flagged a Yellow cab driver, Lester J. Mansell, 42, on a San Diego street and ordered him 100 miles to West Covina where he allegedly went into a house and fired a shot, narrowly missing his father.

Col. Ray to replace Pfeiffer

Colonel Robert J. Ray has been named vice-commander of the 1st Strategic Aerospace Division here. He will take over the duties from Col. George Pfeiffer Jr., vice-commander for the past 14 months, who will retire the end of August.

Colonel Ray comes to Vandenberg from an assignment as commander of the 17th Strategic Aerospace Division, White-Man AFB, Mo. There he was responsible for the Minuteman and Titan II intercontinental ballistic missile wings at White-Man AFB and McConnell AFB, Kan., as well as the B-52 bombardment wing at Clinton-Sherman AFB, Okla.

He served as deputy chief of staff for operations, Second Air Force Barksdale AFB, La., before his assignment to White-Man. There he was responsible for the operational training of all assigned aircraft and missile units for their continual combat readiness.

Colonel Ray entered the service in 1940 and served with the infantry until being selected for flight training in the Army Air Corps. During World War II he flew B-29 missions out of the Mariana Islands against Japan. During the Korean conflict he also flew 51 missions against North Korea.

During his nearly 29 years of service, Colonel Ray has held numerous staff and command assignments. He has commanded several bomb wings and squadrons and has served as both a B-29 and B-36 aircraft commander. The majority of his staff assignments have been in operations.

His decorations include the Air Medal with four oak leaf clusters, the Air Force Commendation Medal, the Asiatic-Pacific Campaign Medal with three bronze service stars and the Korean Service Medal with five bronze stars.

He is a command pilot with more than 6,000 flying hours, 2,000 of which have been in jet aircraft.

Colonel Ray is a native of Arkadelphia, Ark., where he attended Henderson State College. He is a graduate of the University of Arkansas. He is married to the former Ann Hood of Bell Buckle, Tenn. They have one son, Robert, born January 1954.

Servicemen crowding church

HONOLULU (UPI)—Twenty-four AWOL servicemen were in "sanctuary" from the military today at two Honolulu churches.

Three members of the group were moved Friday from the Church of the Crossroads, where the sanctuary began Aug. 6, to the Unitarian Church of Honolulu.

"Things were just getting a little too crowded at the Crossroads," said sanctuary spokesman Douglas Anderson of "The Resistance," an antidraft group.

Anderson said arrangements were made with the Unitarian church to put some of the protesters. The Church of the Crossroads is affiliated with the United Church of Christ.

Work begins to form new S. Viet government

SAIGON (UPI) — President Nguyen Van Thieu today asked Tran Thien Khiem, 44, a four-star general who is minister of the interior, to form a new South Vietnamese cabinet.

In making the announcement 24 hours after Prime Minister Tran Van Huong resigned, the president's office did not say Khiem would succeed Huong but informed sources said he would. Thieu has "requested Prime Minister Tran Van Huong and the whole present cabinet to stay on in their present positions as caretaker government until the formation of a new government," the announcement said.

Khiem is a deputy prime minister and minister of the interior. He has headed the controversial program to try to stamp out Viet Cong leadership in the nation's towns and villages.

Huong resigned after five weeks of unsuccessful negotiating between himself, Thieu and political parties which Thieu is trying to include in the cabinet to broaden the base of the government in preparation for national elections.

Waves rough, president changes swimming place

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI)—President Nixon, who has been shy of swimming in the Pacific near his home, swam with his family and Secret Service men in private beach at Camp Pendleton Marine reservation Friday.

The President, claiming with some chagrin that he was knocked down twice by the high waves at his home, took the entire family aboard a helicopter at the Coast Guard Station adjoining the Nixon estate and flew to the sprawling, nearby Marine base.

Reporters and cameramen covering the President on his California work-play stay were not permitted to follow the Nixon party to the beach.

Earlier Friday, Nixon was given a full report on the Vietnam peace talks by Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, chief U.S. negotiator, during their hour-long flight aboard Air Force One from San Francisco to the Western White House here.

Police suspend normal legal Czech procedures

PRAGUE (UPI)—A series of unprecedented police state measures suspending normal legal procedures went into effect in Czechoslovakia today providing swift and severe punishment for protesters.

In Brno, where fresh fighting broke out between anti-Soviet youths and police Friday night, a nine-hour curfew ended at 5 a.m. and found the city at last quiet. Prague also was back to normal after three days of unrest.

An official government announcement decreed the emergency regulations were in the interest of public order and said they would remain in force until Dec. 31. They were effective immediately.

Among other things, the new measures eliminated preliminary hearings, instituted summary trials, barred defense lawyers access to evidence until during the trial and permitted three weeks detention for police investigation.

If found guilty, the new code provides as punishment summary dismissal from employment, banishment for up to five years from certain parts of the country, or in the case of students expulsion from school.

Legal experts in Prague said the new law apparently is not retroactive and will not affect those arrested in this week's disorders.

Signing the decree, ironically, were three heroes of last year's "socialism with a human face"

Huong objected to the politicians in the cabinet. He said they would put party interests above national interest. He never got along with the national assembly.

One of the reasons the U.S. embassy in Saigon had put on pressure to keep Huong in office was concern that Khiem would succeed him and bring a largely military government.

Although somewhat concerned over the effect on public opinion of having a military man as prime minister, some high-level government sources said U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker had agreed to the necessity of Khiem's appointment.

Informed sources said Khiem was both acceptable to the bulk of politicians Thieu intends to include in his new cabinet and has a good working relationship with the President.

Khiem was born in Saigon in 1925 and rose rapidly in his military career to win the rank of four star general in 1963. During his exile he served as South Vietnamese ambassador to Washington in 1963 and 1965 then as ambassador to Nationalist China.

Presidential Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said that Lodge discussed the peace talks and the "situation in Vietnam." Lodge flew with Nixon after the President had concluded two days of meetings with South Korean President Park Chung Hee. Lodge flew to San Francisco Thursday to attend the state dinner in honor of the Asian leader.

Ziegler indicated that in the course of their review the question of further American troop withdrawals from Vietnam was discussed. Lodge returned to the United States for consultation and personal business. He planned to return to Paris early next week.

Lodge and Nixon conferred for 10 minutes more on the ground after they had arrived at nearby El Toro Marine Air Station.

Infantrymen battle way toward U.S. helicopter

SAIGON (UPI)—Hundreds of U.S. infantrymen battled their way up bomb-scarred Hill 101 today against North Vietnamese troops who have been blocking U.S. efforts to reach a downed helicopter. Another U.S. force fighting in 103-degree heat trapped hundreds of North Vietnamese in a nearby valley.

Military spokesmen said nearly 500 North Vietnamese soldiers have been killed in fighting over the past five days in the area 17 miles west of Tam Ky 340 miles northeast of Saigon.

U.S. losses have been 32 killed and 137 wounded.

American jets and artillery pounded the hill for 12 consecutive hours as five companies of the U.S. 196th Light Brigade pushed up the hill.

The troops have been trying for five days to reach the wreckage of an American helicopter the Communists shot down, killing eight Americans including Associated Press photographer Oliver Noonan, 29, of Norwell, Mass. All were presumed dead.

At the northern end of a nearby valley, U.S. troops discarded their heavy bullet-proof jackets in the blazing heat and many carried three and four canteens of water in their encirclement of the North Vietnamese. Most of the sweltering troops fought in fatigue uniforms and helmets.

"Million Dollar Hill," site of a U.S. base 5 miles to the west of the valley was bombarded with 30 rounds of Communist 82mm mortar fire but casualties were described as very light. The 1,500-foot hill got its name when five American helicopters were shot down on its sides in a single combat assault last year.

Buellton efforts told to attract businesses

The community of Buellton is getting new businesses because elements in the community are seeing to it that proper locations are made available for new operations wanting to move there or set up new venture in the town area.

That is the opinion of Boyd Bettencourt, a member of the Santa Ynez Valley Planning Committee.

Bettencourt appeared before the County Planning Commission in connection with the request of Andrew T. Peterson, of Santa Ynez, for a rezoning to allow the setting up of a major new farm implement sales office on Highway 246, west of the Buellton Parkway.

He told the commission of pressures that were coming to the fore in Santa Ynez Valley by applicants wishing to set up new businesses and desiring places to locate them.

He said there were three such cases before the valley committee now.

Later, in an interview, Bettencourt enlarged on his statement, meanwhile pointing to Buellton as a community "doing something about getting businesses located in the community."

The danger in current efforts to enlarge or set up commercial operations in the valley is that many might have to come before the Planning Commission.

Employe relations resolution studied

Proposals for a new employee relations resolution in county government are under study, it was announced today by officials of the County Employees' Assn.

"Discussions between county officials and association representatives are to commence shortly," it was stated.

Zack Stringer, executive of the association, said "rapid advance in new employee relations concepts in public agencies, and the demand of public employees for increased recognition and participation in determination of wages, hours and working conditions has caused both employee groups and public employers throughout the state to give concerted attention to employee relations policies."

The County Employees Assn. is at this time the only employee organization organized to represent all county employees, said Stringer.

"In the discussion ahead, the association will make every effort to strengthen areas of representation and negotiation and problem settlement procedures," declared Stringer.

mission asking for locations along the highway outside of communities, thus adding to the urban sprawl problem prevalent in much of the county and state.

Bettencourt pointed to a recent case in which the Meadowlark Motel on Highway 246 outside the urban areas was granted a request to enlarge although when first permitted there was a condition limiting it in size.

Now, he said, the proprietor of a market on the highway near the Santa Ynez Valley High School has expressed a desire to build a bigger market. He has received offers on the highway, but apparently no offers in any urban area in the vicinity. If he gets a new highway market site approved, someone else is expected to set up another site, Bettencourt said.

In another case, efforts are being made to set up a plumbing, cabinet and electrical shop in the valley, but those heading the operation can't seem to get offers of land in town in the Santa Ynez area, it was shown. This operation conceivably could be started in a rural area on the highway, if given county approval and no community sees to it land is provided within an urban area.

"Buellton is getting new businesses because it is seeing to it that land is provided to fit the uses being sought," said Bettencourt. "Communities must have a place available when a new business wants to operate; otherwise, it will be difficult to keep them out of country areas with resulting urban sprawl being intensified in Santa Ynez Valley."

Bettencourt said he hoped that communities "will get behind efforts of persons seeking property to start new businesses, and help provide suitable sites" from a standpoint of zoning and surrounding areas.

Consumer may get new voice

DENVER, Colo. (UPI) — The Nixon administration proposed today that consumers be permitted to join together and sue firms indulging in deceptive or fraudulent practices.

Virginia H. Knauer, President Nixon's special assistant for consumer affairs, said the proposal would be "a major factor in giving the consumer the voice he deserves — one which will go a long way toward giving the consumer 'justitia emptori'."

"Justitia emptori" is a latin phrase meaning justice for the buyer.

Mrs. Knauer said in an address prepared for the Consumer Federation of America that one of the consumer's major problems is that he gets illegally taken at the market place, the loss is generally lower than a lawyer's fee.

"But it costs hundreds to get justice for dollars," she said.

"We have an answer to that problem—class action," Mrs. Knauer said. "By joining together and sharing attorney and court costs, consumers can bring suit against a firm indulging in deceptive or fraudulent practices and obtain redress damages," she said.

Police refuse to talk about tests in murder

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Police refused to comment Friday on the results of toxicological tests which would show if any of the five persons slaughtered at actress Sharon Tate's Benedict Canyon estate had been under the influence of alcohol or drugs at the time of the murders.

The Coroner's office acknowledged the tests had been conducted but said it was not authorized to disclose the results.

Authorities have refused to release the results because of the continuing search for the killer or killers.

The use of drugs by some of the victims has taken on more importance in the case daily since police first admitted "narcotics aspects" were under investigation.

Thomas Michael Harrigan, a friend of Polish writer Voityck Frokowsky, one of the victims, told police Frokowsky was experimenting with mescaline at the time of the murders Aug. 8.

Harrigan was questioned by police for three hours earlier in the week and then released. He said he had last seen Frokowsky Aug. 7 when he had gone to Miss Tate's home, where Frokowsky was living, to invite him to a party.

Harrigan said Frokowsky, who he described as very wobbly and high, was on the fifth day of a mescaline trip.

General plan study

Lompoc Planning Commission, Monday, will resume consideration of a policy for updating general plans, and a review of a draft of the city's housing element.

Both issues are continued from the commission's Aug. 11 meeting.

In other action the commission was expected to consider: —The planning director's report pertaining to park dedication as a condition for subdivision.

—A petition submitted by Mrs. Edna C. Beattie to subdivide her property at 117 and 121 W. Hickory Ave., into two parcels. The property is zoned multiple residential.

Auditor to question funds use

County Auditor A. T. Eaves Jr., indicated Friday he expects to ask "some questions" Monday when the county supervisors are asked to approve issuance of $1.6 million in negotiable notes for Goleta Union School District.

Eaves said a study of Goleta Union School District finances shows that the district apparently has taken money from payroll deductions to meet current bills. A total of $49,738 is owed from salary deductions, said Eaves, with a cash balance reported of only $11,887.

The auditor's office makes the deductions and writes out the school district payroll, Eaves explained, which enables his office to oversee school finance operations.

The county supervisors at their meeting Monday are also asked to set a bid opening Sept. 22 on proposed sale of Goleta Union School District bonds in the amount of $250,000.

Last Monday, the county failed to get a bid for two Goleta Union School District bond issues, one for $250,000 and the other for $90,000. Both were 1966 series issues.

N. Ireland demands counter to fund raising plan

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — The Northern Ireland government today demanded Britain send two members of Parliament to the United States to counter Bernadette Devlin's campaign to raise $1 million to America.

Miss Devlin, the fiery civil rights leader and, at 27, the youngest member of Parliament, left the Catholic barricades in Londonderry to fly to New York Thursday to raise $1 million for Catholic victims of Northern Ireland's religious rioting.

Northern Ireland Minister of Commerce Roy Bradford said the government decided Friday to ask that two members of Parliament be sent to the United States to counter Miss

Devlin's statements to American newspapers and television stations because they "would speak with the authority of Westminster."

"They would also be rather more objective," Bradford said, as "Westminster members would be regarded as a little bit removed from the immediate situation."

The British government had no comment on the request.

The request came as the controversial 15-special reserve police began turning in their weapons at police barracks. They were turning in their arms at the order of the British government an order militant Protestants threatened by protest by marching on the Northern Ireland Parliament at Stormont.

Hollywood Today

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Romy Schneider, perhaps Europe's foremost actress, is the perfect guest for Dean Martin's television show—she can't sing or dance.

"I told them that when I came here," Romy said with just a trace of German-Austrian accent, "They told me not to worry, I'm going to sing, but I'm not going to dance."

Romy has starred in more than 30 European motion pictures. Because she speaks fluent French and Italian along with German and English she has starred in pictures in all these countries, doing her own dubbing when necessary.

While she is beautiful and doesn't lack for sex appeal, there is a tautonic directness about the actress which is distinctly refreshing. She cannot imagine why Martin chose a straight actress and brought her all the way from Berlin for a guest appearance on his show.

"I haven't even met him," she said.

Romy has been rehearsing with the rest of the Martin troupe under the direction of Greg Garrison. She will not lay eyes on Dino until the day the show is taped at NBC-TV.

Martin's penchant for golf and quest for spontaneity keep him away from rehearsal until the final run-through.

"I have seen Dean's show at my home in Berlin," the green-eyed beauty said. "The armed forces television people have their own channel in Berlin. It takes a special antenna, but I watch many American shows there, including old movies and Johnny Carson."

Carson has taken advantage of Romy's trip to Hollywood for a visit on his show, and, doubtless, the "Laugh-In" maniacs will grab her for a guest sock-it-to-me appearance.

"I thought that show was English," Romy said of "Laugh-In," explaining that it moves so fast she comprehends only half of it.

She was reassured that Americans fared little better and that it was the number one show in the United States.

"I have only made one picture in this country," she said—"Good Neighbor Sam" with Jack Lemmon.

"I want to make more. Really, I've started three times in films. The first was when I was only 15 and made five movies, most of them with my mother. The second time I went to Paris, worked in the theater and made additional movies.

"Now I have three films still unreleased. But I think I am starting all over again with the new one. It was made in Europe but it has been purchased by Joe Levine for distribution in America."

The title is "The Swimming Pool" and Romy Schneider believes it will make her a major star in the United States. As is the case with most foreign actresses, she is convinced a girl is not a true international actress until she makes it big in Hollywood.

Our old friend, the Unlucky Expert, had trapped us again. "What would you bid with the North hand after your partner's spade opening is overcalled by four hearts?" he asked.

We replied that we would go into a Blackwood routine with every intention of getting to six if our partner showed one ace and to six or seven if he showed two of those nice cards.

"That's just what I did," was the rejoinder. "Now look at the whole layout."

"What are you complaining about?" we asked. "Six spades is a laydown." In expert language, a hand is "laydown" when an expert will find an automatic way to make it. South has just one play at his disposal. He draws trumps, ruffs his five of hearts, cashes all the diamonds and plays ace and another club. West started with the doubleton king-jack. If he wins the second club trick he has to lead a heart and South ruffs in either hand and discards his last club from the other. If West discards a club on the third diamond or unblocks with his king, then South's 10 of clubs suddenly becomes a trick.

Either way South makes his contract. Of course, this is a lucky fall of the cards. Divide clubs 4-3 or place two honors in the East hand and East and West can beat the slam.

Returning to the conversation, he replied. "Of course, it was laydown but I was dummy. My partner didn't even bother to play the hand out. Instead he took a quick look at dummy, spread his hand and announced, 'Down one.' Let me tell you! I never saw anyone accept as fast as our opponents did."

TV in review

By ROBERT MUSEL
NEW YORK (UPI)—The British were interested in doing a morning show like NBC's "Today" but they finally decided against it for the remarkable reason that British homes frequently do not have central heating.

Climbing out of bed to shiver in front of a set while the coal fire or oil heater slowly warms the place is punishment rather than pleasure and although the Spartan British are used to it the television powers felt it was not the frame of mind in which to enjoy a local version of Hugh Downs.

It's national differences like this that lend point to the belief of Julian Goodman, president of NBC, that television as we know it here, is an American conception tailored to this vast, complex land as no other system could be and, in his opinion, the best in the world.

Discusses Television
Goodman discussed television, a few days before the first premieres of the new season, in an informal chat in his office in the RCA Building.

Goodman is pleased with the new NBC product, soon to be judged by the only jury that counts, the viewers, and, coincidentally, by a cross-section of that audience apt to offer him advice over the breakfast or dinner table in his own home; his 86-year-old father, his seven-year-old son and the three teen-age children between.

Goodman was asked how NBC saw the challenges ahead of it.

"Our problem," he said, "is to relate ourself to the times. We are doing young and contemporary shows like 'The Bold Ones' and 'Here Comes Bronson' and the 'Laugh-In' technique has had such an effect on comedy in its ability to get a meaning across quickly that it is being studied by communicators."

Is Rotating Series

"The Bold Ones" is a rotating series of dramas involving three groups—doctors in the forefront of medical research and practice with E. G. Marshall as the star; lawyers with a passion for justice ready to take up dangerous or unpopular causes; civil servants involved in law enforcement in a problem city.

"Here Comes Bronson" is about a modern counterpart of the young adventurers of the pioneer age who headed westward on horseback. This time he rides a motorcycle.

Some months ago Goodman announced a search for young film makers involved in exploring new methods of visual communication. A number of promising producers turned up, many of them working on controversial themes of the day. Goodman said NBC was assembling a special or two composed of their work.

Business notes

Albert A. Dzur has been named new assistant project manager for Santa Barbara del Mar, multimillion-dollar "second home" recreation community under development west of Gaviota State Beach Park by Maccos Corp.

Dzur will assist Keith Morrow, resident project manager, according to H.L. (Jack) Caldwell, vice chairman of the board of Maccos Corp. and project coordinator for Santa Barbara del Mar.

Dzur was zoning administrator for the City of Santa Barbara from 1963 until 1964. He later served as the city's property manager, setting policies for leasing of city properties.

Before joining Maccos Corp., Dzur was associated with a major commercial builder in the Santa Barbara area.

A graduate of Iowa State University, he was originally with Aluminum Co. of America as an industrial engineer. Later he worked in contract administration for Harvey Aluminum Co.

According to Caldwell, he will be immediately involved with the development of Gaviota Seacoast Village, a part of the Santa Barbara del Mar project recently approved by the County Planning Commission. A restaurant, store and service station complex are to be designed and built at Gaviota.

Dzur also will work on other aspects of the development of the 14,700-acre Santa Barbara del Mar recreational project. He lives at 4410 Nueces Drive in Santa Barbara with his wife, Carolyn, and four children.

Cincinnati 'Redfaces' drop two; maintain slim lead

By JOHN JEANSONNE
UPI Sports Writer
Today, the National League's Western Division leader is the Cincinnati Redfaces.
They lost more games (2) Friday night than the original Red Stockings lost in the entire inaugural season of 1869, and the embarrassment of losing a doubleheader to the Pittsburgh Pirates left them only .001 percentage points ahead of second place Los Angeles, which was beaten by the New York Mets, 5-3.

Roberto Clemente personally ruined the Reds in the opener by driving in four runs to lead the Pirates to an 8-2 win, then Al Oliver smashed a two-run, two-out homer in the ninth to beat Cincinnati, 5-3, in the nightcap.

In other National League games, San Francisco swept a doubleheader from Montreal, 7-5 and 10-2, Philadelphia blanked San Diego, 10-0, St. Louis downed Atlanta, 4-2, and Houston defeated Chicago, 8-2.

In the American League, Chicago beat Boston, 4-1, Kansas City trimmed Washington, 3-2, Minnesota shut out New York, 6-0, Detroit turned back California, 3-1, Baltimore nipped Oakland, 4-3, in 10 innings and Cleveland edged Seattle, 9-8.

Willie McCovey blasted his 37th and 38th homers of the year to lead San Francisco to its first win, then the Giants relied on the six-hit pitching of Mike McCormick to take the nightcap.

Mike Shannon's two-out, two-run homer, his 10th of the season, in the fifth inning gave the Cardinals' Bob Gibson his 16th win of the year.

The Mets got to Bill Singer for four early runs including Ron Swoboda's two-run second-inning homer, his first since

Greer's hot bat lead in triumph

Collecting his second straight three for three bat effort, Aubrey Greer paced the City of Lompoc Employee softball team to a 16-11 slo-pitch victory over the Latter Day Saints Thursday night in league play.
Greer is now batting .666 with an eight for 12 mark. Joining Greer in the bat parade with two singles and a double for a three for four effort was winning pitcher Jim Brightwell. Brightwell gave up 12 hits to pick up the win.

In other Closed League action, Calvary Baptist gained a forfeit over the Foursquare Church team. In Open League activity also held Thursday, the Duds tripped the Village, 6-2. Bill Fagan pitched a six-hitter to gain the win and helped his own cause with two singles in two at bats.

League standings for both leagues moving into next Tuesday's round of play is as follows.

Denny McClain may eat humble pie; first 20-game winner in majors

By MIKE QUANE

Denny McClain might have to eat humble pie at the end of this season, but for a good reason.

Even McClain said that it would be impossible for him to win this year, but he may prove apoor forecaster.

McClain became the major leagues' first 20-game winner Friday night with a 3-1 seven-hit victory over the California Angels.

In other American League action, Chicago beat Boston, 4-1, Minnesota shut out New York 6-0, Washington, 3-2, Baltimore got past Oakland, 4-3 and Cleveland edged Seattle, 9-8.

In the National League, Houston routed Chicago, 8-2, San Francisco took a doubleheader from Montreal, 7-5 and 10-2, Pittsburgh swept Cincinnati, 8-5 and 5-3, New York bested Los Angeles, 5-3, and Philadelphia trounced San Diego, 10-0.

McClain was not sharp in winning his 20th game against six losses, but he breezed home for his fifth in a row with the help of a three-run homer by Willie Horton, his 17th of the year.

Gary Peters scattered seven hits, including Rico Petrocelli's 29th homer, and was helped by three White Sox double plays in defeating Boston. Walt Williams and Tom McCraw each hit run-scoring doubles to help Peters to his eighth victory.

Dave Boswell was taken out of the game when he was beamed by a Bill Burbach pitch in the eighth inning of his 6-0 triumph over the Yankees. Boswell had scattered seven pits en route to his 13th victory before the incident, which had

No racing at S.M. tonight

The Santa Maria Speedway will be dark tonight. A.C.R.E. stock cars and jalopies will take the weekend off and spend the needed time to sharpen the racers for the special Labor Day weekend race on Saturday night, Aug. 30.

The double feature facing program has taken its toll of cars in both divisions and will welcome the extra time to get all the cars in racing shape for next Saturday's event.

Twenty of the fastest qualifying stock cars will hit the starting grid for a special 50-lap main event. The jalopies will have to face a 20-car starting field also for a 30 trips around the one third mile oval to celebrate the holiday special.

Counting the Labor Day weekend special next week, the championship will be scheduling five more race events to climax the 1969 season for local racers.

Colts win guided by Unitas

By STEVE SMILANICH
UPI Sports Writer

Old pro Johnny Unitas has forgotten a lot more football than rookie O.J. Simpson has learned but the veteran quarterback of the Baltimore Colts still remembers that winning is the name of the game.

Unitas, who like Simpson is working to win a job in the starting lineup, showed he's regaining the form which made him one of pro football's most respected quarterbacks Friday night when he guided the Colts to a 20-7 triumph over Simpson and his Buffalo Bills teammates.

Johnny U., a veteran of 13 seasons who sat out most of last year nursing an ailing elbow, fired touchdown passes of four and 70 yards to tight end Tom Mitchell in directing the defending National Football League champions to victory.

The triumph gave the NFL a split in two games with American Football League rivals Friday night as the Houston Oilers came from behind to down the Chicago Bears, 19-17. The NFL has a 12-5 edge in interleague exhibition games.

Simpson, making his home field debut for the lowly Bills, carried five times for 25 yards, caught two passes for seven yards and returned two kickoffs 35 yards.

Pete Beathard hit Mac Haik with an 11-yard scoring pass with 1:26 left in the game to give the Oilers their win over the Bears at Houston.

Chicago had gone ahead with 4:39 left when Gayle Sayers raced 97 yards with a kickoff return. The Oilers took an early 9-0 lead on a second quarter 99-yard return with a field goal attempt by Ken Houston.

Eight games are scheduled tonight, headlined by the Kansas City at Los Angeles and Green Bay at Dallas contests.

In other games, Miami plays at Cincinnati, San Francisco at Denver, Cleveland at San Diego, Washington at Atlanta, Minnesota against St. Louis at Memphis, Tenn., and Pittsburgh versus New Orleans at Baton Rouge, La.

No games are scheduled Sunday inasmuch as the baseball tenants of major-city stadiums have priority in their use.

pitchers with a 14-hit attack, and coupled with the Mets' win, Chicago's lead in the Eastern Division was reduced to 5 1/2 games.

A lead like that would make the Cincinnati Reds feel like the pennant was clinched.

Retriever trials set for base

For the second consecutive year, Vandenberg AFB will play host to the Southern California Retriever Club field trials, Sept. 19-21.

The trials will be held at Mod Three Lake and the surrounding area.

A field of more than 75 Chesapeake Bay, Golden and Labrador retrievers is expected to compete for the trophies and cups to be awarded at the conclusion of the three-day competition.

The dogs will be competing for points and wins in order to become eligible for the National Amateur and Open Retriever Field Championships. To qualify, a dog must have earned 7 1/2 points and one first-place win in field trials competition.

For some dogs, the competition here will be the preliminary steps to the national championships; for others it will be their first competition for points.

There will be four stakes. The first will be the amateur all-age division. It will be open to all dogs of any age who are capable of responding to hand signals given by an amateur handler.

The derby division will be for beginning dogs between the ages of six months and two years. Amateur and professional handlers may participate. In the open division, amateur professional handlers may work dogs of any age which are capable of understanding hand signals.

The qualifying stake will be for beginning dogs that are not ready for either the open or amateur stakes. They may be worked by either amateur or professional handlers.

Three tied for lead in State Open golf

SANTA MARIA (UPI) — Three golfers were tied for first today going into the third round of the 50th annual California State Open golf tournament.

Terry Small of Long Beach, Jack Laxsome of Monterey and Charles Leider of Burlingame are all deadlocked with five-under-par totals of 139 after 36 holes.

Small, the 1964 NCAA individual champ who is making his pro debut in this tourney, had rounds of 72-67. Laxsome, a 53-year-old home pro, notched rounds of 70-69. Leider shot his way into the lead with 18s of 69-70.

AVCO golf tourney upside down

By DICK DEW
UPI Sports Writer
SUTTON, Mass. (UPI)—If you thought the demonstration-marred PGA championship was confusing, wait 'til you see the AVCO Classic. The $150,000 tournament is upside down, backward, and a little wacky.

Billy Casper missed the cut. So did Don Massengale, Bob Goalby, Billy Maxwell, Deane Beman and Labron Harris. Gary Player and George Archer made it by a stroke. Orville Moody made it by two. And Arnold Palmer was present only as a television commentator, not a player.

Of the 12 men selected for the U.S. Ryder Cup team just last week, only three qualified for AVCO's third and fourth rounds. And the best of the lot, Dan Sikes, was exactly 10 strokes off the midway pace.

After the first round, the tournament shaped up as a competition between "who's that?" and "what's his name?" but "what's his name?" has already been wiped out.

"Who's that?" turns out to be Tom Shaw, a grinning, stocky, long-haired resident of Golf, Ill., and while he may not be very well known on the tour, the 26-year-old Shaw figures to be richly anonymous by Sunday night.

Shaw, who ended a five-month slump by snatching the opening round lead by a stroke, matched his fast start Friday to post an impressive 68-68-136.

That score was eight under par and five strokes better than anybody else. "Anybody else" in this case turned out to be slender Canadian George Knudson, whose 69-72-141 made him the lonely occupant of the runnerup spot.

Only nine players broke 72 par on the big, lush Pleasant Valley Country Club course on opening day. For the most part they blamed it on the wind that gustied up to 30 miles an hour.

The wind died down to a light, comfortable breeze on Friday. So 19 broke par. But the halfway scores showed only slim entries had managed to shoot sub-par golf for twodays.

Maryland apologizes, pleads ignorance

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UPI) —The University of Maryland, having its hand slapped by the 118 - member policy - making council of the National Athletic Association, Friday apologized and pleaded ignorant.

The council, meeting here in its second and final day, criticized the university for allegedly employing an athletic recruiter who at the time was working as a talent scout for a professional baseball club, and chastised the school for allowing an advertisement in the Washington Post promoting the school's recruitment of four high school student athletes in the area.

The censure constituted only a public rebuke of what the council called the university's "violations of the principals of ethical conduct."

The university responded by saying the acts were not indicative of its policies regarding athletic recruitment, and that procedures have been initiated to prevent a recurrence of violations of NCAA legislation.

During the two-day meeting, the NCAA Policy Council also recommended clubs on the wining and dining of prospective college athletes.

Friday's leaders had their problems. George McCallister skidded to a 76 after opening with 68. Ralph Coker of San Jacinto tumbled to 75 from 68 and amateur Stu Morgan of Griffith Park followed his 68 with a 77.

Jack Fleck, the 1955 U.S. Open king who defeated the mighty Ben Hogan to notch that title, bounced back into contention with a 68 to go with his opening 73 for 141.

Former PGA champion Jerry Barger who won here in 1959, regained his touch with a 67 to share low round honors with Small. Coupled with his shaky start of 75, Barber isn't too far back at 142.

All alone in second place at 140 is teaching pro John Hardy of Camarillo. He has steady rounds of 71 and 69.

Another stroke back at 141 is a six-way traffic jam composed of Flack, Dick Carmody of San Diego, touring pro Jerry Heard of Visalia, Dave Barber of Bakersfield, Jim Gilbert of San Diego and Pinky Stevenson of Costa Mesa.

Defending champion Ronnie Reif of Costa Mesa, a tour regular this year, is at 142. He is joined by Jerry Barber and low amateur Brad Lozares of Saratoga.

Touring pro Jerry Steelsmith of Santa Barbara is at even par, 144, along with Jack Garner, brother of movie star Jim Garner, of Studio City.

The lush, tree-lined fairways of the Santa Maria Country Club got to many of the players Friday, with several not turning in the cards. Jerry Barber praised the Santa Maria layout, saying it was one of the most interesting he's ever seen.

A total of 120 pros and 32 amateurs tee off in Saturday's third round. The field will be trimmed again to 90 pros and 20 amateurs.

Rams to test running game depth tonight against Kansas City squad

By JOE ST. AMANT
LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The Los Angeles Rams should find out tonight against Kansas City whether they'll have much depth in their running game this season.

Coach George Allen plans to start rookie Larry Smith at running back with the veteran Les Josephson at fullback, Izzy Lang and Jeff Jordan will also see plenty of service at these spots.

Allen, as is his custom, is holding out his fragile runners Dick Bass and Tommy Mason, until the regular season begins. Bass presumably will be the No. 1 fullback if he measures up to his standard of previous years.

The Chiefs will present a varied offensive calculated to keep the opposition guessing. Their running strength is typified by Mike Garrett, the Old Trojan hero who has galloped many miles to glory on the Coliseum turf.

Coach Hank Stram has an experiment on his hands. Curtis McClinton, a tried fullback, has switched to tight end and will start there in place of the injured Reg Carolan.

Garrett's running partner will be Robert Holmes, a second year man from Southern University, and the 13-year vet Len Dawson will be at quarterback.

Roman Gabriel who has not started this year like a ball of fire quarterbacks the Rams. He has thrown two touchdown passes, a 15-yarder to Jack Snow and an 85-yard bomb to Wendell Tucker, both in the Rams 24-17 win over the Dallas Cowboys. Against the Cleveland Browns last Saturday the Rams could not penetrate the end zone and lost 10-3.

The chiefs are undefeated in three exhibition games this year but have yet to come away from the Coliseum with a victory. They lost the first Superbowl game to Green Bay in that arena and have lost twice to the Rams by large margins—44-24, and 35-16.

A crowd of 60,000 is expected to show up for 8:05 p.m. kickoff.

Brown's charges rapped by Los Angeles sheriff

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Sheriff Peter Pitchess Friday repudiated charges by football star turned actor Jim Brown that deputies were harassing Brown and had given "grossly distorted factual representations" of his brushes with the law.

In a strongly worded statement released by the sheriff's department, which earlier refused to comment, Pitchess said the "allegations are gross distortions of the true facts."

Brown is scheduled to appear for a preliminary hearing next Thursday on felony assault and other charges stemming from a minor traffic accident. Authorities said Brown allegedly tried to run down the other driver, then threw the man from the hood of his car. The man jumped on the hood in an attempt to stop Brown, authorities said.

In a statement issued by a public relations firm, Brown charged he "was visited nearly every night for a period of two months by sheriff's deputies with warnings to keep my record player low."

The statement said Brown was not at fault in the Aug. 1 traffic accident which occurred as the actor and recently retired pro basketball star Bill Russell were driving down a West Hollywood street.

Brown also charged that no attempt had been made to question Russell "the only witness to the accident."

Pitchess said Brown fled the scene of the accident "eliminating the possibility of obtaining names and statements and no effort was made by him (Brown) to furnish such information until after the issuance of the complaint."

"His ridiculous charges are not worthy of dignifying by further response," Pitchess added.

California Legion nine toppled

KLAMATH FALLS, Ore. (UPI)—Portland, Ore., and Lewiston, Idaho, came out of the Western Region 8 American Legion baseball tournament's second round action here as the only unbeaten teams Thursday night.

Two teams were eliminated from the tournament—East Anchorage, Alaska, and Yakima, Wash. All six teams remaining will play today with two more teams certain to be eliminated.

Portland won its second straight test by defeating a strong Ontario, Calif., club, 7-1, behind the hitting and pitching of Tom Wise, who collected four hits, including a home run and double, while limiting Ontario to seven hits.

Lewiston rallied for five runs in the top of the ninth inning to defeat Las Vegas, Nev., 7-3, taking advantage of a streak of wildness from Las Vegas pitcher-loser Steve Shultz.

Klamath Falls, defending Northwest regional champion two years in a row, stopped Yakima, 5-3, behind the strong pitching of 16-year-old Dave Selinsky and the hitting of Larry Buehler. The victory for the host team kept their title chances alive since they are one of four teams with 1-1 records.

Honolulu, Hawaii, bounced Alaska from the tournament, putting 11 hits together to whip the Alaskans, 11-1. The loss by Alaska meant they were the first team to be cut from the double elimination tournament.

Today's action involves Honolulu, 1-1, vs. Las Vegas, 1-1; Ontario, 1-1, and Klamath Falls, 1-1, vs. Portland, 2-0; vs. Lewiston, 2-0.

Olivares takes title in fifth

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) —Relentless Ruben Olivares of Mexico won the world bantamweight championship Friday night by scoring a fifth round knockout over Lionel Rose of Australia.

Olivares, 21, floored the Melbourne Aborigine three times in the one-sided contest before referee Larry Rozadilla called a halt at 2:24 of the fifth round.

The unbeaten Mexican thus became the fourth citizen of his country to hold an undisputed world boxing title.

The win was the 48th knockout for Olivares in 52 fights. The loss was the third in 37 fights for Rose, who won the bantamweight title 18 months ago.

Billy Graham crusade seeks California choir

ANAHEIM, Calif. — A 5,000-voice choir?

That's the question Jack L. Coleman, noted Santa Ana choral conductor and composer, asked in echo to the statement that upwards to 5,000 singers would be needed for the Southern California Billy Graham Crusade, scheduled for September 26 - October 5, in Anaheim Stadium.

Not that the well-known musician was a novice to large musical challenges.

In March of this year he was named choral director for the nationally televised King Family Show on the NBC network.

For the last four years he has served as choral master for the world famous Laguna Festival of Opera in Laguna Beach.

He was instrumental in developing a new concept in educational music recordings for the Walt Disney Music Company.

And at the time he administered the music education programs in 26 Orange County cities covering 450 schools, he was a music instructor at Orange Coast College and California State College.

But when Mayor Lorin Grist of Santa Ana, chairman of the executive committee for the Billy Graham Crusade, pointed out the responsibilities involved in recruiting and training 5,000 singers from Santa Barbara to San Diego, Jack Coleman could only hold his head in contemplation of the logistics and work in such a task.

His hesitation was short, however. He took on the job as a volunteer without financial remuneration. He feels that his pay will be greater than money.

What does it take to gather that many experienced singers and coordinate them into a cohesive group able to harmonize together and give a creditable accounting of their talents?

Fourteen meetings first were organized throughout Southern California with choral conductors and ministers of churches.

They took enrollment cards for their people to sign.

Although the objective is to have 5,000 singers available, the choral conductor believes a more realistic figure will be between 4,000 and 4,500. "This will give us an average of 2,500 voices each of the 10 nights of the Crusade," he declared. At mid-August 3,500 had indicated their intention to participate.

Every minister and choral director in Orange County will be phoned to invite their choir members to join the choral group in order to assure a full compliment of singers.

G. Willard Bassett, another well-known Orange County choral conductor and music teacher, is assisting Coleman as a member of his committee. Several music students are also helping to organize the choir.

Coleman said the opportunity to join the large choir would not be limited to current church choir members. "We extend an invitation to any person who desires to sing in the choir. All we ask is that they call the Anaheim Stadium Crusade office to sign up and attend the two rehearsals planned for mid-September," he said.

The choral conductor said that, in addition to the two advance rehearsals, a nightly rehearsal will be held 45 minutes prior to the formal service. The public may attend the services early and listen during the rehearsal period. The choir will present special music at each of the 10 services.

Coleman himself has a close historic tie to the Billy Graham Crusades. As a member of a gospel singing quartet, the

"On Handling Life's Second Bests" is the sermon topic chosen by the Rev. William J. Denton of the First Christian 1517 W. College, Ave. for the 11 o'clock worship on Sunday, August 24. His scripture is taken from Acts 16: 6-10.

Sunday School for all age groups, nursery through adult, is at 9:45 a.m.

Because the first day of school is on their regular meeting date for September, the Naomi Spencer Group of the Christian Women's Fellowship will meet at 9:30 a.m. on August 26 instead of the Fellowship Hall "Get Acquainted Day," sponsored by the Service Department, will follow the meeting.

On Tuesday evening, August 26, the Christian Men's Fellowship will hold its monthly dinner meeting at 6 p.m. in the Fellowship Hall.

choral leader sang in Graham's tent Crusade held in Los Angeles in 1949. He has also been a long-time friend of Cliff Barrows, who is Billy Graham's music director.

Songleader Barrows will direct the locally formed choir during the nightly pre-Crusade practice as well as during the special music presentations. However, when he comes to Southern California, his choir will be formed and ready, if Jack Coleman has his way. From all indications, he will!

This country will not soon get over the excitement and drama of the first man walking on the moon — in full view of the whole world. We thought we were prepared for it. So many other rocket launches and orbitings that one almost forgets names and faces of the first travelers. But the space race goes on and we are caught up in the scientific dimensions that will dominate our education, industry and national priorities for the remainder of the century.

In spite of the 19th century contest between science and religion, some brilliant theologians anticipated this hour and greeted it with excitement and anticipation. They were in the minority, considered suspect by the orthodox and misunderstood by the average mind that frequented theological waiting rooms.

A true giant of this century was Pere Teilhard de Chardin — a French Jesuit known for his geological studies in China and his theological projections for an expanding universe where God invited man now to be a co-creator. Not many could stand his line of thought, but he tirelessly labored and must be counted as one of the brightest lights within the traditional church to see the link between earth and the heavens. And he said it so well, friends, when he wrote in 1954:

"Whatever may be said, our century is religious — probably more religious than any other — how could it fail to be with such vast horizons opening before it and with such problems to be solved?"

And Teilhard added a sledgehammer stroke after that when he wrote:

"The only thing is that it has yet the God it can adore."

Albert Schweitzer, we think of him so often as physician and philosopher and missionary, was comfortable in the scientific academies as well as the seminaries of Europe. He knew that religion would have to run to catch up with the express-train pace of advancing science. He also hoped that man would close the gap and find the synthesis that would bring happiness — not horror — to mankind. He once put it this way:

"Let me give you a definition of ethics: It is good to maintain life and further life; it is bad to damage and destroy life. And this ethic, profound, universal, has the significance of a religion. It is religion."

At the White House worship service on July 20, the President asked Sen. Mark Hatfield, R-Ore., to offer the prayer. Here again the sensitive words of a man at home with the achievements of science and the expectation of religion were joined in a prayer of thanksgiving:

"Our Father, we marvel at three brave space pioneers prepare for landing on the moon. From the depths of our hearts we pray for a safe return of Neil Armstrong, Edwin Aldrin and Michael Collins. Sustain their wives, children and families during these anxious days. We are grateful for the thousands of support personnel who literally are their brothers' keepers.

"Excite our imagination to transfer this genius of co-operation and spirit of teamwork to our many other needs lest our success on the moon mock our failures on the earth.

"Even as our astronauts go to the moon in the name of peace, our world aches from the pain of wars. We perfect the means for destroying human life and then believe we have found security. May the nations trust not in the power of their arms but in the Prince of Peace, thy Son."

Conservative movement growing in churches faced with liberal stand

By LOUIS CASSELS

United Press International

Organized conservative movements are flowering in several Protestant denominations that have taken liberal stands on social issues.

Thus far, these movements are too small to make a serious bid for control of policy-making machinery. But they are big enough to register an audible dissent, and they seem to be growing.

Their emergence is evidence of the deep split that has developed in nearly every major U.S. religious body over how churches should respond to the demands for revolutionary change which are emanating from black people, young people, poor people and other disaffected elements of society.

"This, and not the virgin birth, the infallibility of the pope or the authority of the Bible, is what Christians argue about most heatedly today," says Baptist theologian Harvey Cox of Harvard Divinity School.

"On the one hand, there are those in all churches who want the church to play its customary social role as the guardian of the values and institutions of the past. They usually couch their attitude in terms which suggest that the church should 'stay out of politics.'

"On the other hand there is that growing group of laity and clergy, mostly young, which insists that the church should play a direct role in social change."

In some major Protestant bodies, such as the Southern Baptist Convention and the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod, conservatives are in control of the governing bodies and social activists are the minority voice seeking to be heard.

But in most of the big mainline Protestant denominations, the situation is reversed. It is in these denominations that conservatives are now organizing for internal battle.

Perhaps the most potent of these movements is the Presbyterian Lay Committee, which has been functioning since 1964 in the United Presbyterian Church.

It is headed by Roger Hull, board chairman of Mutual Insurance Co. of New York. Other business leaders who participated in its organization are J. Howard Pew, chairman of Sun Oil Co., and George Champion, chairman of Chase Manhattan Bank.

The Presbyterian Lay Committee now has active chapters in 18 cities and 22 others are in process of organization. Although no membership figures are published, the committee's official magazine, The Presbyterian Layman, has a circulation of about 220,000.

Hull's group has worked quietly to put a checkrein on what it regards as ill-advised social pronouncements by Presbyterian officials. It has carefully avoided flamboyant threats of schism.

A more militant posture has been taken by Concerned Presbyterians, a conservative movement in the predominantly southern Presbyterian Church in the United States.

Concerned Presbyterians is headed by Kenneth Keyes, a wealthy Miami realtor. He says membership has increased 30 per cent in the past six months, but declines to give actual figures.

Keyes urges his followers to regulate their giving in such a way as to bring financial pressure on denominational agencies which espouse theological or social liberalism or support church merger proposals.

"We will not stand by and watch the radicals liquidate our church," he said recently. "We are gaining strength monthly."

W. Jack Williamson of Greenville, Ala., secretary of Concerned Presbyterians, said this month that a schism in the denomination "appears certain" sooner or later. But Keyes replied:

"The liberals want to see us leave the church. We won't think of leaving until we have a showdown on these issues."

In the Episcopal Church, schism is openly threatened by a group called the Foundation for Christian Theology, headed by the Rev. Dr. Paul H. Kratzig of Victoria, Tex.

Kratzig says that his organization, formed three years ago, now has "hundreds of thousands of supporters" all across the country, but offers no specific membership figures.

The Kratzig claim is discounted by national officials of the church, who regard his group as a splinter faction largely confined to the deep South.

Kratzig demands the resignation of Presiding Bishop John E. Hines, whom he blames for "diverting church funds from missionary work to socio-politically oriented black power groups." He also opposes Episcopal participation in church union negotiations.

The focus of conservative discontent in the United Methodist Church is a little magazine called Good News, edited by the Rev. Charles W. Keyser of Elgin, Ill. It has encouraged the organization of "renewal groups" to work for "a revival of scriptural christianity in the United Methodist Church." Renewal groups are now operating in 18 areas of the country. No total membership figures are available.

The aims of the movement are summarized in a "Methodist Bill of Rights" which asserts that Methodists in every local church are entitled "to receive the religious nurture of the individual soul from their pulpits; to hear the Christian gospel expounded in Christian and historic terms; and not to have decisions of the secular state pre-empt the attention of their pastors."

Conservative movements may find a favorable climate for growth in the current state of public opinion. In a recent Gallup poll, 53 per cent of church members interviewed felt that churches should "keep out of political and social matters" while only 40 per cent said churches should "express their views on day-to-day social and political questions."

The other 7 per cent had somehow managed to remain indifferent or undecided on the sharpest controversy in church life today.

Rev. Harris returns to pulpit at United Church

This Sunday's sermon at the Valley of the Flowers United Church of Christ by Rev. Richard E. Harris, is entitled "Suffering Serves a Purpose". It is based on the second half of the book of Isaiah. Services are held at the chapel-in-the-round, 3346 Constellation Road, each Sunday at 10:00 a.m. with classes and child care at the same hour.

Kindergarten and child care meet at the same room. The older children attend the first portion of the worship service, leaving for their classes after a children's story by the pastor.

This Sunday there will be a meeting of the Board of Christian Education at 11:30 a.m. immediately following the regular 11 o'clock coffee hour.

Rev. Harris will have his final week's vacation for this year starting Monday and continuing through the Labor Day weekend. Attendance at Family Camp, Pilgrim Pines, the United Church of Christ camp located at Yucaipa, in the San Bernardino Mountains, is the main feature of the Harris family plans for the week. The Rev. A. J. Knoll will again conduct the worship services at the United Church next Sunday during Rev. Harris' absence.

The regular schedule of church activities will resume during the first week in September with senior choir rehearsals starting September 3 under the direction of Charles Bockius the United Church Youth meetings being led by Rev. Harris at 4:00 p.m. Sundays starting on September 7.

'Mind' is subject for lesson

Moses, Thus thou shalt say unto the children of Israel, Ye have seen that I have talked with you from heaven."

This verse from Exodus is part of the Christian Science lesson-sermon, titled "Mind", to be read in the denomination's churches this week.

A correlative passage from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy states: "The human capacities are enlarged and perfected in proportion as humanity gains the true conception of man and God."

Services at First Church of Christ, Scientist, 210 S H St. are at 11:00 a.m. All are welcome. Sunday School for those up to 20 years begins at 9:15 a.m.

Ministry with youth emphasized

The church's ministry with youth will be the emphasis tomorrow morning at the worship service of the First Presbyterian Church. Two young people, Ross and Drew Carey, will be presented with the God and Country Scouting Award. Ross is a member of Explorer Post 67 and Drew of Troop 67 in Vandenberg Village. The boys are active participants in all phases of the congregation's life. The pastor, Rev. Kenneth R. Boyd, and Miss Becky Husted will jointly present a message on "The Church and Youth. Miss Husted, a recent graduate of Lompoc High School, will enter University of California at Davis in the fall.

The Church School meets at the same time as the worship service, 9:30 a.m. Primary and junior children attend the first portion of the worship before going to their classes.

The Chancel Choir will resume rehearsals Thursday evening at 7:30 p.m. and will sing for the first time following vacations, on September 7.

Question of planet life aired

By LOUIS CASSELS

United Press International

In Houston, Tex., three American astronauts are sitting out a three-week quarantine as a safeguard against the possibility they may have picked up strange microbes on the moon.

While most scientists consider it highly unlikely that living organisms exist in the airless environment of the moon, it is widely believed, within and without the scientific community, that space-voyaging man sooner or later will encounter life.

This belief—which President Nixon has made a flat prediction—is based at present entirely on conjecture. There is not, so far, an iota of hard scientific evidence that any form of life exists anywhere in the universe besides the earth.

Scientists who postulate the existence of life elsewhere in the universe do so because, as the New York Times put it in a recent editorial, they are "reluctant to believe that this minor planet of an unremarkable star, the sun, is unique in all creation as the abode of life."

Suppose some form of life eventually is found, on Mars or in some other solar system. What effect would this discovery have on the religious beliefs of mankind?

The effect could be shattering for anyone who has entered the space age with a stone age conception of God. If, for example, a man believes in God solely because he feels this hypothesis is necessary to explain the emergence of life on earth, he would surely be disconcerted by evidence that the same "miracle" has occurred elsewhere.

But there really is no need for any Christian or Jew to pin his religious faith to the precarious proposition that earth is the only place where the creative will of God has been expressed in the bringing forth of life.

More than a century ago, a Catholic priest - astronomer, Fr. Angelo Secchi, said it was preposterously vain for man to assume that God has populated only one tiny speck of the cosmos with intelligent beings.

High court complete

The "Burger court" is now complete. President Nixon's nomination of Judge Clement R. Haynsworth Jr., of South Carolina to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Abe Fortas will, when and if confirmed by the Senate, raise the Supreme Court to full nine-justice strength.

The suspense these past weeks has been, to say the least, bearable. Haynsworth has been widely discussed in the press, obviously inspired, as the likely choice. And if by any chance more was needed, there was the laying on of hands, a week before the announcement from the western White House, by chief congressional pachyderm, Sen. Everett Dirksen, whose record for calling the shots on major appointments has been rather good so far in the administration.

Now the great game begins — analysis of Haynsworth's record on the bench and his personal philosophy, speculation of the effect on the court's balance and decisions and the political maneuvering over his confirmation.

Pros and cons are, of course, relative. What will count in the nominee's favor in some quarters — his reported strict constructionist views on the admissibility of confessions, or his liberal decisions on habeas corpus — will be black marks against him in others. To be expected are the charges that the nomination of Haynsworth, although a Democrat, is another example of the President repaying an election debt to the South.

But it should be clear by this time that Richard Nixon is nothing if not a shrewd politician, and therefore very much aware that weak appointments to a Supreme Court under intense public scrutiny, thanks to the Warren era, could have unfortunate consequences for himself in 1972. What profiteth it a president to gain the South and lose the rest of the country? It can be assumed that the nomination has much more to recommend it than the regional aspect, although there is something to be said about that, also.

While it is true that the Supreme Court is not based on political geography (there is no constitutional bar to a President appointing an entire court from Delaware, if he so chose and could get away with it), the South — which, after all, must live with the court's rulings along with the rest of the country and has, in fact, borne the brunt of so many recent landmark decisions — has been underrepresented in recent decades.

Hugo Black of Alabama, the senior justice, is the only Southerner at present on a court heavily weighted toward the Northeast (four justices from New Jersey, New York and New England). The recently departed Fortas was, to be sure, a product of Tennessee. But he had been so long a member in excellent standing of the eastern liberal establishment that his origins had little meaning, least of all to the South. Of the 23 court appointments from Black's in 1937 through Chief Justice Warren Burger this year, only four have been from the South, counting Fortas.

The analysis and maneuvering are inevitable. The speculation is more — futile. Although the Haynsworth nomination would seem to reduce the hard-core liberals to three — Douglas, Brennan and Marshall — there is enough of a mix in the Haynsworth record, as there is in Burger's, to make prediction risky.

The record of the Burger court will be written in its decisions, and not before.

Dear Abby

Sis' marriage wasn't ideal

DEAR ABBY: You are the only person who can help me, so please answer this in a hurry and help me get my sister back to normal.

After an ideal 20-year marriage, my sister's husband lost his head over a beautiful but dumb 19-year-old kid. Right now he and his child bride are honeymooning in Europe and my sister is home crying her eyes out.

What happens to an intelligent man when he hits 50? How can we walk away from the woman who has loved him for 20 years just because a pretty young thing comes along?

This has shaken up the whole family. Now we all look at our husbands and wonder which one of them will be the next to run off with a teen-ager. Please give us your support.

BELLEVILLE, MICHIGAN
DEAR BELLEVILLE: All intelligent men do not lose their heads when they hit 50. Obviously your sister's "ideal 20-year marriage" was not as ideal as it appeared to be. It's unfair to sit in judgement knowing nothing of the human needs of the people involved.

DEAR ABBY: I am tall, dark and considered handsome. I am in the medical profession which affords me an excellent opportunity to meet attractive women. (Nurses, patients, doctors' daughters, etc.)

My problem is that I am 30 years old, and some of my friends have told me that if I am thinking about marriage to forget it because 30 is considered "over the hill." Is it?

MEDICO
DEAR MEDICO: Don't be silly. At 30, you are young enough to CLIMB the hill.

DEAR ABBY: Our child Rick is 14, and he doesn't know the first thing about how to handle money. It's all his father's fault because his father didn't have anything when he was a boy, and he wants his son to have it better.

Rick gets 10 dollars a week for just breathing. He's supposed to keep his room picked up, and I don't mean make his own bed, I mean just drop his dirty socks and underwear in the clothes hamper. But he doesn't even to that.

He's never saved a quarter in his life, but he sure knows how to get money. His father pays him 10 dollars for every "A" and 5 dollars for every "B". Also, this big lummo had two teeth extracted last week so he let us know that he was putting his teeth under his pillow in case the "Good Fairy" wanted to "buy" them. Well, his father slipped a 10 dollar bill under his pillow that night and "bought" the teeth. (Isn't 14 a little old for that?)

Please say something about the importance of teaching children the value of a dollar.

RICK'S MOM
DEAR MOM: Before you can teach your small boy how to handle money, you'd better teach your big boy how to handle his son. Every child should be taught to save a part of everything he gets. Your husband, as well intentioned as he may be, is denying his son the very experience that made a man out of HIM. The way to learn the value of money is to WORK for it.

DEAR ABBY: I wish you would have told "DISAPPOINTED MOTHER" who was so upset because her daughter was taking birth control pills FOUR months before her wedding to relax! That girl was wise. My doctor put me on "the pill" six months before my wedding, and I'm glad he did because it took that long for him to find the right "pill" for me. I switched from five different brands before I hit on the one I could tolerate. Three had terrible side effects. They gave me all the symptoms of "early pregnancy"... and I mean morning sickness and dizziness, too. Now, wouldn't that have been lovely to experience on a honeymoon? A PLANNED PARENTHOODER

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069, and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

No, Gwendolyn, "alimony" isn't what a wife lets her husband have to go bowling with the boys.

World Report by Henry J. Taylor

The Soviet fleet

Our Central Intelligence Agency is newly concerned about the Soviet deployment of its missile submarines. It appears that the Kremlin intends to station these permanently along the entire Atlantic seaboard, in the Gulf of Mexico, and off San Diego, Los Angeles, San Francisco and Seattle on our Pacific Coast.

Traditionally, a navy's role has been to keep the sea lanes open. Russia's has been an exception. The Soviet navy began when the British gave Russia the World War II battleship Royal Sovereign and we gave Russia — totally on the cuff, of course — the great cruiser Milwaukee. These were Russia's only capital ships. Accordingly, the Red Fleet was deployed defensively in the Baltic and along the Soviet sea borders on the Pacific side.

But, adopting our U.S. Navy's World War II pattern, the Kremlin has fundamentally revised the fleet's strategic role and changed it increasingly to an attack basis.

Meanwhile, Britain has dropped out of this costly competition. This leaves only two first-class naval powers in the world: the U.S. and the U.S.S.R. What Russia does we must do, and vice versa.

Beyond fast aircraft-carrier units, which Russia still lacks, the change has emphasized missile submarines, which cannot be tracked by radar or by sight and are not where they were even a few minutes ago.

Our Congress, in turn, has authorized 41 such submarines. Each carried 16 hydrogen missiles totaling 656 atomic warheads. Each warhead averages about three megatons explosive power, aggregating 1.9 billion tons — yes, tons — of conventional explosives. This represents from the submarines alone roughly the entire weight of World War II bombs dropped on Germany.

Our Central Intelligence Agency estimates that the Red fleet now has not only more nuclear and conventional submarines than the United States, but more than the entire rest of the world combined.

CIA agents in the Soviet Union credit the sea arm with 425 submarines — 390 conventional, 35 nuclear. They report them at present stationed chiefly off our coasts on a round-trip basis and off Cuba, Red China and Australia. Incidentally, Red China has 30 Soviet-built submarines of her own.

Espionage has entered heavily into this Red fleet change to an attack capability. The Red agents in the convicted Konon Molody ("Gordon Lonsdale") spy ring within the British Admiralty obtained top-secret particulars about the U.S. Navy's Decca Tracking System and scooped up the top-secret data about Britain's "Dreadnaught" nuclear submarine project with which our Navy was cooperating. The Red ring likewise deeply penetrated our Navy's nuclear submarine base at Holy Loch, Scotland.

Moreover, a major utilization of the Red submarine fleet today is to deliver additional agents. Castro is among the important beneficiaries, and has been for a long time.

For example, Castro's leader for the Dominican Republic revolt was Dominican Communist party executive committee member J. I. Quello. Quello, on a Castro mission to Russia, was secretly landed from there in a submarine to begin the attack. So was bloody-fisted Joaquin Ordoquin, Castro's No. 3 man, who was landed by a Soviet submarine from Caibarien, the main Soviet submarine port in Cuba, 190 miles east of Havana.

The Red fleet's change to an attack stance has also resulted in beefing up Castro's array of what the Kremlin calls the Lamda-75s. These fast vessels have a surprising 13.5-ton fuel capacity that gives them an action radius of 3,600 miles along our Caribbean coast.

Castro now has more than 100 Lamda-75s and other Russian varieties at sea. They are directed by Soviet naval officers from Matanzas, only 75 miles south of Key West, Fla.

Moreover, the CIA believes that during the recent visit of Soviet fleet units to Cuba the Russian admiral in command authorized a further expansion of the Soviet-expanded Chulian Shipyards in Havana Province.

The Russians also support Castro's crafts with far-flying Russian jets stationed chiefly at the Soviet air base at San Julian, 90 miles southeast of Havana, the island's largest air station. Each Soviet jet is capable of instant conversion into a bomber merely by attaching the bomb rack. And the CIA calculates that each is capable of launching a larger and more devastating atomic missile than is launched by a U.S. Polaris submarine.

Capitol Report by Bruce Biossat

Voice of youth

WASHINGTON (NEA)

The behavior of college radicals and their close sympathizers in the months just ahead may determine whether their more moderate classmates gain a new and bigger role in U.S. politics. Off recent past performance, the prospect is not good.

Most careful studies indicate that campus extremists were almost always the engine of initiative in the turmoil of 1968-69 which engulfed a record number of schools in unrest leading to violence, vandalism, disruption and ugly confrontation.

No one expects the radicals to join the normal political process. Polls indicate they have no use for either major party. But if this time they succeed often in winning moderate support for their campus disturbances, as they did in 1968-69, then the growing counterreaction in the general electorate may bar proposed fuller youth participation in politics. Impact would fall on the great "center mass."

The reason that hope is thin on this score is that the radicals, in the Students for a Democratic Society and other militant groups, seem to be impelled along a path of no return.

The Vietnam war could end tomorrow, racial strife could ease greatly, poverty could be licked, and still the radicals would move against the constituted authorities in and beyond the universities.

For, as Lewis S. Feuer, University of Toronto sociologist, observes in his huge study of student movements, the radicals are engaged in a "generational revolt" whose iron law is rejection of everything — no matter how tempting — the "establishment" offers up.

They must reject, reject, reject. Thus radical student interest in the civil rights movement diminished sharply once the federal government had enacted the landmark legislation of 1964-66. They could not join in the work of their adult elders.

The Peace Corps, widely hailed as an imaginative effort to enlist the idealism and energies of the young, is spurned by student militants as a "playpen" where evil-minded adults try to plant their children while they go about their dirty work in Vietnam and elsewhere.

We hear much these days about the "alienation" of the young, nearly always with indications that adult failures are the cause. But, as Feuer points out in his book, "The Conflict of Generations," the idea of alienation comes from the radicals themselves — who got it from the early writings of the celebrated Karl Marx.

The author insists that the student rebels need the concept of alienation. It gives shape, he says, to their vague but very deep and real feelings of resentment against their fathers and others in the adult realm.

That resentment Feuer finds at work throughout history, and he considers the generational conflict continuous, normal and inevitable.

Much of the time, he suggests, this conflict is in equilibrium in society. Then there are no disquieting "student movements."

But when balance is destroyed by the genuine failures of the adult world, then students in concert pour out their aggressions against that shaky society. He sees stunning examples in 19th century Germany and Russia and in postwar Japan (the adults lost the war).

Somewhere, in our misuse of affluence, our delayed action in the racial field, our repeated stumbling into war, we in adult America are perceived by today's students as failures.

Feuer hails the idealism that spurs on youthful reaction against the shortcomings of this society, as it has in every student movement. Yet his long, panoramic view of these movements leads him to conclude that this idealism dies as the students, drawing deep on their generational animosity, unleash their aggressions and turn finally to violence and a view of themselves as an all-knowing elite.

America's colleges today obviously are well-seeded with radicals who fit this portrait of the rebel who will always find a cause. If they have as big a year in 1969-70 as they had last time out, then it will be bad news for youth's participation in the politics of the real world. Adult anger could leave the barriers high.

Yester years

AUGUST 18, 1939

Saturday will be a Good-Will day in Lompoc. It was planned last week by a large number of Lompoc businessmen at a meeting held Thursday.

Extensions in the water mains estimated to cost a total of $4,000 are items in the water department's budget for the coming year.

Out of the saga of the golden west, with its tales of heroic deeds, of the lives, the loves and sorrows of the pioneers, September 2-3 has been set aside by Lompoc for annual Pioneer Days.

AUGUST 17, 1959

A one-chance-in-a-thousand try to catch a 300 pound missile capsule ejected from Discoverer V satellite failed Friday and the Defense Department has abandoned virtually all hope of finding the re-entry vehicle.

More than 27,000 persons availed themselves of all activities of the Lompoc Department of Recreation during the month of July according to a report released today by Jack Anderson, recreation director.

A move to enlarge the facilities of the Lompoc Youth Center is underway this week in anticipation of needed recreational activities during split school sessions for junior and senior high students.
